Dear Hiring Manager,

I have had the privilege of working with Amir Hamza during his internship at Manatt's in the latter half of 2020. Amir was a valuable member of a small team that pioneered a software engineering capability within a large construction company.

Amir worked with us on some greenfield technology projects which included fuel tracking with IoT devices and hourly employee time tracking via a web application. He was able to leverage a variety of different technologies in his work here, including Typescript, Angular, C#, .NET, Python, Amazon Web Services, and Raspberry Pi.

In addition to working with a variety of technologies, Amir fit in well with our software delivery practices, which include pair programming, test-driven development, and continuous integration.

We value the time we had with Amir, and I recommend him, his talents, and willingness to learn for future teams, who will be lucky to have him.

Sincerely,

Josh Bechard
